REBELS COMING VIA MEXICO.—It is becoming very evident that considerable numbers of rebels are purposing to come from their own States to the Pacific. Men who were denied pardon on account of their treason will drift out to these States and Territories, and it may be that some of them will seek prominent positions here. As a general rule they will be of the very worst class of those who were engaged in the rebellion. The New Orleans Picayune states that a large number of rebel celebrities are coming in this direction via Mexico. That paper says:

We understand that the Americans, late of the Confederate army who have recently gone over the border into Mexico do not propose to take service with either belligerent of that country. They will make their way directly to the interior and thence through the Northern States to the Pacific coast. There some of them will engage in mining, and others settle down as colonists on lands already prepared for them. The trip across the country will probably take most of the summer, but the party is well fitted out for even a longer time. In all probability many of them will ultimately find their way to California, there to settle in new homes among their own people again. We are informed moreover, that most of the prominent leaders of the party, especially those from this State and from Kentucky, leave the homes of their childhood with sad regrets, and with the hope of soon returning without being molested. They only leave now because, excepted from the amnesty, they would be liable to arrest and incarceration, at least till their own trials, or those of their class representatives, take place. However, it is their intention to return, if they can do so in safety. Among these are Governors Moore and Allen, of this State; Governors Clark and Murray, of Texas; Generals Price and Shelby, of Missouri; Hindman, of Arkansas; Bee, of South Carolina; Kirby Smith and Magruder of Virginia, and Preston of Kentucky. The former was United States Minister to Spain, served on the staff of Sidney Johnston, and afterwards in the Trans Mississippi Department. General Buckner, we understand, returns home to Kentucky.

LIABILITIES OF HOTEL KEEPERS.—An important decision has been rendered by the Supreme Court of the State of New York in the case of Wilkins vs. Earle. The latter was proprietor of Earle's Hotel in New York city, and some time ago the plaintiff, Wilkins, put up there as a transient guest, having with him the sum of twenty five thousand dollars. Seeing the usual hotel notices posted in his room, in regard to depositing money and valuables in the office safe, Wilkins took it there and delivered it to the clerk. When he called for it a day or two after, it was gone and he has never obtained any portion of it. He thereupon brought an action to recover the whole amount from Mr. Earle. The case was tried before a jury, who found that plaintiff was entitled to recover twenty five thousand dollars. Defendant took an appeal to the General Term, and that court has now reduced the amount to one thousand dollars, on the ground that the last named sum was a reasonable amount for traveling expenses. The case is regarded as important, inasmuch as it defines the rights and liabilities of innkeepers under the statute of New York State.

THE BLACKFOOT MINES.—Mr. Edward Smith, a packer well known throughout the whole northern country, writing from the Blackfoot mines, under date of August 21st, says: "I arrived here on the 17th and found the best country I have seen for business in a long time. I have had my cargo upon three days and have taken in about $1,000." The writer proceeds to give the retail prices of staple articles: Shovels, $9 each; blankets, $20; pants, from $12 to $20; rubber boots, $20 per pair, and other articles in proportion. We gather from Mr. Smith's letter that the mines are extensive and permanent in their character. The importance of his statements, and the degree of credit to be given them, will be understood when we state that he is an old packer and miner, and that he has visited every mining camp in the northern country. As a further evidence of the richness of the new mines, we have the fact that scarce a day passes that does not witness the arrival of one or more persons from the Blackfoot country, and that without exception they bring the dust with them—some in large amounts.

COTTON MILL.—The first cotton mill on this coast is now nearly completed at Clinton, Alameda county. It will be in operation by the 15th of November. The main building, the walls of which are now finished, will be two stories in hight, 40 by 90 feet upon the ground, and there will be three other buildings, intended for residences for the workmen, etc., also like the main building, of brick. The machinery is now all upon the ground. There will be twenty-five looms in the factory, and an engine of eighty horse power will run the entire machinery. The proprietors are now building a stern-wheel steamer of 200 tons burthen, at the Potrero, to ply upon the bay and carry their materials and manufactured goods to and from the factory.—Cal. paper.

The Last Story about Gwin

In His Highness Duke Gwin we have an ample somewhat common in these days. [illegible] made him, or at least all so very bit long kept constantly before public attention in the columns of the newspaper press. It must be allowed that the public journals of our country have given this individual a notoriety which few even of the ambitious are ever enabled to acquire. Gwin by his shrewd conduct has gained a cheap and transient reputation in that he has so managed matters as to have had his name associated during the past two years with those of the mighty potentates Napoleon and Maximilian. The assurance and audacity which the "Duke" has displayed in thus causing his name to be paraded before the world in such illustrious company, are truly sublime. His special organ on this coast was first Beriah Brown's Press and since that paper's demise the San Francisco Examiner. These journals have regularly published court news respecting the Government of the High Mightiness of Sonora. We have been repeatedly informed that the "Duke" was the confidential and bosom friend of both the Emperors. A new triumvirate was supposed to exist in the world, the chief of whom controls the destinies of Europe and from his Parisian capital sends his influence over the earth and makes his power felt among all men. The second member of the triumvirate occupies the rather uneasy throne of Mexico and just now seems in danger of encountering the fate of a monarch who possesses no kingdom. The third person of this unsullied trinity has been thought to be His Grace of Sonora. The affections of this last personage have hitherto been about equally divided between both continents. On several occasions when as some of his American admirers have informed us, he was about to stretch his mild sceptre over his ducal realms and assume the very praise-worthy duty of governing the "white man's country," he has taken sudden departure for Paris to see and consult with the great despot from whom he derives his nobility and titles. Several times we are told, has he been at the Tuilleries in confidential communication with the magnate who dwells there. But after all it is turning out that the world has been misinformed. Not long ago there was an indication that the reins were slipping from the "Duke's" hands and now we have a statement coming from a paper which may be presumed to speak authoritatively that he has been superseded in Sonora. The San Francisco Examiner's Guaymas correspondent has the following about Gwin and some of the rebels who have found their way into his pretended dominions:

This steamer (?) brings us letters from the City of Mexico announcing that Dr Gwin has been superseded as Commissioner for these provinces by Gen Gambour, a Mexican. This change has been brought about by Washington diplomacy. The appointment of Gwin was regarded as unfriendly to the United States and by holding out encouragement to the settlement of refugees from the Southern States, calculated to disturb the peace of the border. With this view a private arrangement was entered into between Mr Seward, Marquis of Montholon, and a special deputy of Maximilian, by which the United States guarantee strict neutrality and the suppression of all filibustering expeditions against Mexico, and the Emperors are bound to withdraw and avoid all unfriendly acts or countenance and encouragement to the disbanded rebels. Dr. Gwin immediately left for Texas where he has large estates, determined to renew his allegiance to the United States and make his permanent residence there. Large numbers of the disbanded soldiers of the late Confederacy are pouring into Northern Mexico. Gen. David S Terry, with a train including his own and several other families, have arrived in Sonora by the way of Chihuahua. Col Dan Showalter, Col. Kennedy, Ridgely Greathouse, Duncan Beaumont and hundreds of others are at Mazatlan, and several thousands in all are scattered through those northern departments. It is understood that the Emperor's engagements with the United States will not admit of his accepting the military services of these refugees, and I can see no other chance for their employment at the present time in this country. The consequence of this influx of men, rendered desperate by their necessities can easily be anticipated. The concessions which the Emperor has made to guard against filibusters may—indeed must—be quite as fatal to the public peace and safety.

ROUTE FROM CALIFORNIA TO IDAHO.—The Sacramento Union of August 30th, says that a party which was appointed some weeks ago to ascertain the facts as to the condition of the wagon road from Chico to Owyhee, have submitted a report giving the results of their observations. No mention is made of the distance from Chico to Susanville, and little is said of the route between those points. From Susanville to Owyhee the several stations are given, and the distances between them, making in all about four hundred and twenty or thirty miles. Hence it appears that it is no less than five hundred miles from Red Bluff and Chico to the mines of Idaho. It is reported that the road for the most part is quite good but that some very steep hills and heavy pulling are to be encountered. From the statement thus made by the Californians themselves it appears that the road from that State overland to Idaho is fully as long and difficult as we ever asserted it to be. No great amount of freight will ever be hauled over this very long and tedious route. It is easy even for the patrons of Red Bluff and Chico to see that the Columbia river route is far better, quicker and cheaper than any other.

THE CHAMPAGNE CASES IN SAN FRANCISCO.—The Bulletin of San Francisco shows that for years, a system of frauds has been practiced on the Government by the undervaluation of many articles imported at that city. The importers have hitherto had the matter in their own hands and have defrauded the Treasury Department of large sums of money. It is said that the Government was cheated out of at least half a million dollars by the undervaluation of wines imported at San Francisco in the year 1864. Measures have lately been taken to check this systematic swindling. In several cases large quantities of champagne have recently been declared forfeited [to] the Government for the reason that the full amount of duties had not been paid as required by law. Proceedings against several parties are still going on. It seems to be the intention of the authorities at San Francisco to ferret out all frauds of this kind. Two thousand five hundred cases of wine have already been forfeited to the Government.

THE OLD FRIGATE CONGRESS.—Mention was made some time ago of an effort to raise the frigate Congress, which was sunk in Hampton Roads by the rebel ram Merrimac in 1862 just before the arrival of the little Monitor at the scene of action. The effort has been completely successful and the Congress which went down with her colors flying and her guns pouring defiance at an almost invulnerable antagonist, now floats proudly again upon the surface of the deep.

ATTORNEYS ADMITTED.—On Thursday last the following persons having passed the required examination before the Supreme Court at Salem were admitted to practice as attorneys in the Courts of this State: F. A. Moreland and H. W. Scott of Portland; M. H. Adams, of Canyon City; and —— Flynn, late of New York.

Chambersburg, Penn., which was entirely destroyed by the rebels little more than a year ago, is being rapidly rebuilt.

There are 45,000 laundresses and washerwomen in Paris on a strike.

A force of Imperialists with a wagon train en route from Monterey to Matamoras, were met by eighty Liberals [illegible] who were attacked and driven back on Monterey. A Colonel, late of the Confederacy was killed. Reinforcements from Matamoras were met by Cortinas' guerrillas and driven back.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept 8—The Bulletin publishes the following: As there has been some dispute concerning the terms of the proposed fusion between the two Union parties of this city, which the majority of the Independent Nominating Convention decided to endorse, we publish below an official copy of the agreement itself:

Memorandum.—It is understood between the committee of the Independent Union Nominating Convention of the first part, and the committee from the late Union County Convention of the second part as follows to wit: First—the party of the second part the committee from the County Convention consent that one Senator and six Assemblymen may be selected from their ticket. Second—the party of the first part the committee from the Union Nominating Convention consent and agree that said convention shall present a full ticket from which the party of the second part may select one Senator and six Assemblymen, and the 2 senators and 12 assemblymen so respectively selected, shall compose and constitute this ticket to be supported at the coming election by the Union party of San Francisco. SAFES!

TILTON & M'FARLAND'S
CELEBRATED
FIRE AND BURGLAR PROOF
SAFES!
THE ONLY RELIABLE SAFE
on this Coast.

THE FOLLOWING IS TAKEN FROM THE Detroit Tribune of June 25th, 1865:

"DARING ROBBERY.—On the night of the 18th inst., the Treasurer's office of Macomb county, Michigan, was entered, the safe broken open, and robbed of $7,000. The safe was laid upon its back and the door entirely demolished with a sledge hammer. We learn from highly authentic sources that the robbers could not have worked over ten minutes before entering the safe.

Persons now using the chilled iron safes should be very careful of depositing large sums of money in them, unless some one is sleeping nigh. The safe above alluded to was purchased only a few months ago of Lillie's agent, and warranted both fire and burglar-proof. As soon as "Lillie's agent" heard of the robbery, he at once went to Mount Clemens, and (as we are told) tried to reconcile the matter by offering the county a new safe, and asking at once to remove the old one. However, in this he has been foiled. The question now arises among the County Commissioners, are not Lillie & Son responsible for the stolen property, after warranting their safe both fire and burglar-proof? The people of Macomb county are anxious that this thing should be looked to.

An English Prediction.—The following is an extract from a letter of the 8th July 1865 from a London banker to his correspondent in New York:

We are glad to observe that your information indicates a probability that there will be no difficulty in raising Southern produce by means of free labor. Should this be so, and the free trade league succeed in giving a proper direction to taxation, there can be little doubt that after a very few years, in which it may be necessary to borrow a portion of the amount required to discharge the interest and other expenditures of the country, the United States will arrive at a degree of material prosperity that will enable it to carry its large debt easily enough.

The State Rights Democrat speaking of the difficulties in the way of reconstruction without slavery, says that its party will have to come into power and revise the present order of things before we shall have peace. It is very evident the Democrat is thinking more of re-establishing slavery than of restoring the Union and harmonizing the country. As for ourselves we do not propose to consider whether the late rebels like the abolition of slavery or not. After having whipped them, we are not going to be anxious to accede to their wishes in the matters of national policy.

Jeff Davis' plantations in Mississippi are now used for the support of the poor and infirm among the freedmen.

WISTAR'S BALSAM
—OF—
WILD CHERRY!
HAS BEEN USED FOR NEARLY HALF A CENTURY,
WITH THE MOST ASTONISHING SUCCESS IN CURING
Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Croup, Liver Complaint, Bronchitis, Difficulty of Breathing, Asthma, and every affection of the THROAT, LUNGS, AND CHEST, INCLUDING EVEN CONSUMPTION.

There is scarcely one individual in the community who wholly escapes, during a season, from some one, however slightly developed, of the above symptoms—a neglect of which might lead to the last named, and most to be dreaded disease in the whole catalogue. The power of "medicinal gum" of the Wild Cherry Tree over this class of complaints is well known; so great is the good it has performed and so great the popularity it has acquired.

In this preparation, besides the virtues of the Cherry there are commingled with it other ingredients of like value, thus increasing its value ten fold, and forming a Remedy whose power to soothe, to heal, to relieve, and to cure disease exists in no other medicine yet discovered.

The unequalled success that has attended the application of this medicine in all cases of

has induced many physicians of high standing to employ it in their practice, some of whom advise us of the fact under their own signatures. We have space only for the names of a few of these:—

The proprietors have letters from all classes of our fellow citizens, from the halls of Congress to the humblest cottage, and even from beyond the seas; for the fame and virtue of Wistar's Balsam have extended to the uttermost bounds of the earth, without any attempt on our part to introduce it beyond the limits of our own country.

Speech of General Sherman

A bar [banquet] was given to General Sherman in St. Louis on the 19th of July. The most notable feature of the occasion was the speech of the General in review of the past he has taken in the war since he and Halleck met at the Planter's House and planned the campaign up the Tennessee river, to the surrender of Johnston's army. General Sherman said:

Gentlemen: I feel more than usually [illegible] to the [illegible] many with whom I have been associated in [illegible] in business, in the social circle and in public affairs. I [illegible] the warm [illegible] which I have just heard from the [illegible] speaker who has just preceded me, comes with double pleasure. I would I could repay it. I would I were as brilliant a speaker as my friend who has just seated himself. I could then interest you. I could travel all over the world to find [illegible] suited to the occasion. I would jump over to Rome and to the fair land of Greece and I would come back still adding to the history of your own great country, bearing recollections—recollections that are doubly dear to me from the associations. I would bring back associations with the South, with the Spaniard, add still more [illegible] with your Barksville still living when I saw but to-day, but the world sweeps on, and I will not pause. I see the paper before me alludes to me as an actor in the scenes just past, and classifies me as one of those men who have simply wafted our country past the dangerous reefs and placed it upon the firm ground where it may enter again upon a career of prosperity and glory. [Cheers.] I admit that the four years past seem even now to my heart a dream. I can hardly realize the part I have taken in the struggle of the past four years. It seems to me as a dream that men reared under our laws, men who were enjoying prosperity which they themselves admitted was never surpassed, should rise up in rebellion against the land and the Government of Washington. It seems to me impossible—but no, it was a possibility and is now past, thank God! We have a right as men and as citizens to return and cast our eyes back over the past, and as the events of the past rise up before our memories see if through those past events we can learn the lesson of wisdom which will make us better men, better citizens and better patriots in the future.

If I can trace any principles in the past calculated to effect this object I will count myself repaid.

Here in St. Louis we laid the plan and the movements which terminated this war of battle [illegible] such as was never seen and which extended from ocean to ocean, and which had its right and left and grand center here.

I remember one evening, up at the old Planters House, sitting with General Halleck and General Cullum, and we went on talking about this and that and the other thing connected with the war. A map was on the table, and there we examined the position of the troops and the position of the enemy's troops in Kentucky, from whence I had just come to this city. General Halleck knew well the position of the troops here, and with his large blue pencil he drew a line on the map and I remember the question which he asked me: "Sherman, how would you break that line?"—which was the line of the Tennessee river.

General Halleck is the author of the first beginning. I give him credit for it with pleasure. [Cheers.] This plan was put in motion and the line of the Tennessee was broken by General Grant. General Halleck's plan went further and his second line went further, which was to cross the river from Fort Henry to Donelson and break the second line from Memphis to Charleston. That last movement was made. Our first line was the Tennessee. I have seen to-night Captains of steamboats that first went with us up there, the high storms came and we did not reach that river.

At that time General C. F. Smith commanded. He is now dead. All the old officers remember him, that gallant, elegant old officer. [Cheers.] Had he lived, probably some of us younger fellows would not have attained our present position. But that is now past; we failed to reach the second line in that campaign. The account of the affair at Pittsburg Landing was a mistake which it is not for us to discuss; it was not a mistake, that was the first great battle of the Army of the West. At first we had only an army of twelve, then twenty, then thirty, and at Pittsburg Landing only about thirty eight thousand men. Grant was there with his army of Western men, and our enemy was led by Sidney Johnston, who was the peer among the old officers, and high above Grant or myself, or anybody upon our field. It was almost a wonder we were not conquered; it was the first great contest for manhood—man fought against man, and soldier against soldier; we held our ground, and therefore counted ourselves victors. From that time forward our army had prestige, that battle was worth millions to us, and formed one of the brightest pages in our history. It was won by the courage of our men—by the men who stood firm before the fire of the enemy. From that time to this there has been no want of courage on the part of our Northern soldiers. From this battle began the game of grand war; our armies counted their equal, and skill and generalship came into play.

We entered then upon the movement upon Corinth; the armies of the East then made their movement toward the west; but the summer heats overtook us and we could not march. The streams became dry and the men became thirsty, therefore we delayed until the fall, and late that fall I met General Grant, by appointment, at Columbus. There again, we went over the map, and the next thing was to break the line of the Tallahatchie. A great many men and citizens don't understand these things, and all the newspaper accounts that I saw were void of truth. [Laughter.] Pemberton there commanded the army of the Confederacy, and was superior in numbers. Our men were scattered behind the Tallahatchie. Grant then moved upon Pemberton, while an inferior force struck from Helena toward Granada and almost grasped a portion of Pemberton's force. We fell back, and this gave us the line of the Tallahatchie without a battle. War means success by virtue of any means that may be employed. It is not fighting alone that wins success; bulls and bears and beasts can do that; but men attain their objects by intellect, as well as by physical force. We gained in that [illegible] of the Tallahatchie all that could have been gained in any battle, although scarcely a gun was fired. We gained all that could have been gained in any other battle upon earth. It gave us undisputed possession of all Northern Mississippi; it gave us undisputed possession of the resources of that country, and that country has been in our possession ever since in a military sense.

Then came the great campaign of that on which you and I and all of us were more doubly interested than any other person. The possession of the Mississippi river is possession of America (cheers), and I say that had the Southern Confederacy (or call it by what name you may) held the lower part of the Mississippi river it would not have been a subdued people. They would have dictated to us their terms, and we would have had to give up. Their possession of the lower Mississippi would have been fatal to us. We fought for it, and bought it, and we were determined to have it. It was impossible to go down with frail boats past the batteries at Vicksburg.

After the Tallahatchie line was carried Vicksburg was the next point. While General Grant moved his army of men to the rear of Vicksburg I gathered together my hastily collected forces and hastened down the bayou and there, for the first time, I had Frank Blair under my command. On the day, and at the very hour that I was there, I was there, and re-stormed those heights and the present Governor of Mississippi fell a prisoner to the enemy. I listened anxiously and painfully for the co-operating forces inland and before us, but they did not come. General Grant had sent me word not to attempt it, but it was too late. You of St. Louis remember well that long and painful winter when we lay there, seeking for channels through which we could go. We were forced to run those batteries at Vicksburg. General Grant probably reached upon me more responsibility than any other commander under him, for he stated to me that he wanted me to make a feint on Haines' Bluff to enable him to pass the next top, Grand Gulf. "I hate to ask you, Sherman, because the people of the North will say 'You have been repulsed again.'" [Great applause.] I loved Grant for his kindness and I said that I would make the attack. [Applause.] I did make the feint on Haines' Bluff and a beautiful one it was, by which enabled General Grant to get his army up on the high plateau, the thing that he had been laboring for for two months, and the people of the North felt relieved now that Sherman was again repulsed. Rapidly we made the march on Jackson, then back to Vicksburg and the flag was finally placed in possession of that stronghold, and then, as Lincoln said: "The Mississippi went unvexed to the sea." [Cheers.] From that day to this this war has been virtually at an end. It was certainly then useless for the sovereignty of the South to fight any more as they should have given up like men, but they didn't do so. The men at the South would have been willing to do so, but Jeff Davis wouldn't gratify them. Jeff had them under pretty good discipline and therefore it was necessary for them to fight. Then came the affair at Chickamauga. One morning early I got orders to go to Chattanooga. I didn't know where it was hardly, but I found it and I got there in time. [Cheers.] Forsooth although my own men were shoeless and the bitter piercing winds of winter were upon us we marched on Knoxville. [illegible] that march we made. [A voice—"And you got there."] [illegible] the winter for all as to the [illegible] until Spring. In the spring again General Grant and I met at Nashville, and we talked the matter over. We agreed that I should take all the enemy I could make out of the Western armies and fight Joe Johnston go where he might, whilst General Grant took the Army of the Potomac. The [illegible] at which time we should all be ready and was ready and almost at the [illegible].

In the [illegible] depend upon an enemy of [illegible] fought [illegible] miles apart. The history of that is well known that [illegible] Grant struggled [illegible] to Atlanta. Things looked dark. It looked as though we had [illegible] but as long as there's a will there's a way, and there was a will [A voice—"And that was the will of General Sherman."] [illegible] that will points toward [illegible] and then to Atlanta. In war [illegible] risks [illegible] and when [illegible] lives depend upon a move of [illegible] shall be taken [illegible] But where a man has got to [illegible] it has got to be done. [Cheers.]

I had faith in the army that I commanded and I knew that [illegible] as many to [illegible] Atlanta. The [illegible] old story about the man who won the elephant and it was a trouble to him to know what to do with it. Again we had to put our wits together, and we concluded to kill the elephant [Cheers.] and we had a right to do it.

When we took Atlanta [illegible] were bound by every rule of civilized warfare to relinquish their cause because it was then hopeless, and if they continued they were certain to be punished. They continued the war; then we had a right to [illegible] a system of such treatment as to make them feel the effects of the war and [illegible] to the proper authorities. We [illegible] Atlanta [illegible] have to [illegible] the question then arose in my mind how to apply the power then intrusted to me by Government so as to produce the result—the end of the war, which was all we desired, for war is only justifiable among civilized nations to procure peace—that is the object of war. Therefore I had to place a part of my army to fight them in the rear, and go through Georgia, and to them [illegible] war was meant. I had a right to destroy their communications, which I did, and I made them feel the hand of power so that they would never again invite an army. Savannah fell as a matter of course. Once in our power, the question then arose, what next? Lincoln asked of me, What next? But I never had received any orders, I had asked advice and got mighty little except from Grant. He was very generous and fair. [Cheers.] From no other quarter could I get one word of advice. Then came that vast movement which involved more labor and more risk than anything which I ever did or ever expect to do again. I could take Charleston again, without going there by breaking its railroads—people have got to eat, and they must either eat there or go where the eating is; the next thing was to reach Columbia, which is also an important place in the South. At first we all thought that in Columbia would be fought the great battle of the war. There is where they sent their liquors, which my friend Blair remembers. [Cheers and laughter.] The General then concluded his speech as follows:

There were reports that Sherman was turning traitor, that Jeff Davis had bought him with gold. I rather think that Jeff would have found it pretty hard to buy me.

All that is now past, and I am satisfied in my heart that we have passed this great trial, and I am satisfied in my mind that, in our armies, we have many of the best men in the North and in the South, and what are the sentiments of these men. In all States and in all lands we have had wars. Did we go to war for the destruction of our enemies? Certainly not. Do men go to war to recover what has been lost by the war? Certainly not. Another new stage is now springing up before us. If any man will come to me and counsel as to Arkansas, Louisiana and Georgia, I will discuss the case, and show the importance of the matter in a plainer light—the importance of bringing in more revenue to assist in paying the debts of the United States. Anything, then, that improves Georgia, Louisiana or Arkansas, improves the United States of America. If men commit a crime, however, they are open to trial in the Civil Courts. Bring them before the Courts, and if there is evidence wrought to convict them put them in the penitentiary. But I think, so far as experience has manifested, our duty should be to obey the laws, and it should be our pleasure to put every man and every woman in a position to fulfil any part in the body politic, where they may earn an honest living and add to the nation's wealth. Anything looking to that end I certainly think every good citizen may well do without conniving at crime for I say crime is not to be passed over by military men. Murder is murder, and will be murder to the end of time. Arson will be arson forever in time of peace. It is utterly impossible that any American officer in conducting himself as an officer, should wish to usurp civil power. We look upon the civil power as something a little below us, not at all wishing to detract from its merits. On the contrary, quite the reverse. I take no pleasure in relieving your Sheriffs and Courts. Let us all come together again and do what seems to be most honest and most just to restore our country to physical prosperity. As to your political prosperity, I know nothing about it, and care about it far less.

THE RECIPROCITY QUESTION.—The New York Tribune of a late date has the following on this subject:

John F. Potter, formerly a Representative in Congress from Wisconsin, is now United States Consul General for the Canadas. He thought fit to attend the recent Trade Convention at Detroit, and there at a special convened meeting of American delegates only (though Canadians also were at perfect liberty to attend) he gave the reasons which impelled him to deprecate a renewal of the arrangement known as Reciprocity. In language every way courteous and unobjectionable he avows his conviction that a permanent and perfect reciprocity of free commerce between the United States and the Canadas was desirable to both parties—that the temporary, partial, and necessarily precarious arrangement now known as reciprocity tended to prevent a realization of the true and perfect reciprocity—and that, in the interest of that true reciprocity, he held that its present illusory and imperfect namesake should cease. In setting forth his views he uttered no harsh or unkindly utterance, and cast no blame on any one. He even apologized for the wrongs we have endured at the hands of the Consuls and kindred Canadian dignitaries who have proffered impunity for the rebel raids for the purpose of murder and arson along our frontier, insisting that, had Canada been the theatre of civil war, similar wrongs would have found incitement and protection on our side. But he not merely asserted his hope—that there were many good Canadians who viewed the subject in the same light with himself and deprecated a renewal of what is termed reciprocity as an impediment to a true and perfect reciprocity through political union. In all this it was obvious that Potter was not acting unwisely nor in hostility to the wishes of the Government of which he is a representative. And his statement that, for a year past, no single American vessel had passed through the St. Lawrence to or from the ocean is a striking commentary on the asserted reciprocity of the present system.

BOOTS DISCOVERED FOR [illegible].—Arnold was betrayed by the letters found in his boots. Aaron Burr, according to Parton, was betrayed by his shoe leather, when he attempted to escape through the South to the Gulf coast. Burr's assumed dress was the [illegible] of the country, but the [illegible] of Perkins' [illegible] observed that his boots were elegantly shaped and [illegible] with [illegible] pantaloons from which they protruded. NEWS FROM SYRIA.—A [illegible] Constantinople [illegible] says: His Majesty the Sultan has at last granted a full and entire amnesty to the chiefs [illegible] in the late Syrian outbreak [illegible] to Kourshid Pasha, who at that time [illegible] Governor of Beyrout, to [illegible] Pasha, the General of the army, to the Mussulman notables [illegible] exiled in consequence of the part they took in the affair, and to the Druse chiefs, some of whom had been banished, and others had taken refuge in the Hauran. This act of clemency is mainly due to the urgent efforts and representations of Abdel Kader, whose journey to Constantinople was specially undertaken for this purpose.

SICKLES' MISSION.—Major General Sickles has returned to Washington. The papers have all failed in their attempt to get at the object of his visit to South America, and the prevailing evidence that our Government has [illegible] its own counsel. The market is without material change. There is still a good [illegible] all the vegetables exposed for sale, but for the most part everything in the market is of Oregon production. Fish continues to arrive in abundance and [illegible]. Peaches were never known to be more reasonable in this market than they are now, selling at [illegible]. It may not be so much owing to their plentifulness as it is to the quantity of other kinds of fruit. We quote [illegible] at 5 cts ℔ lb. Buyers are paying $1 00 as an average ℔ box of the same size as ordinary apple boxes.

There is the same complaint as to the scarcity of lard and the quality offered is no better than we have had for some weeks. Butter is more plentiful. A good quality of printed and roll butter to-day commands 40 @ 45 cents. That offered at the [illegible] of better quality than the average for a month or two past and is held at 40 @ 45 cents. Eggs are dropping under fresh supplies from the country at 40 cents.

"CONSTITUTION WATER,"

THE ONLY REMEDY FOR DISEASES OF THE

BLADDER, KIDNEYS,

Gravel, Dropsical Swellings,

GENITAL DEBILITY, ETC.

THIS ASTONISHING SUCCESS WHICH HAS ATtended this invaluable medicine renders it the most valuable one ever discovered. No language can convey an adequate idea of the immediate and almost miraculous change which it occasions to the debilitated and shattered system. In fact, it stands unrivalled as a remedy for the permanent cure of the maladies above mentioned, and also—

DIABETES, IMPOTENCY, LOSS OF MUSCULAR ENERGY,
PHYSICAL PROSTRATION,
INDIGESTION,
SEMINAL WEAKNESS,
GLEET, FLUOR ALBUS,

And in every disease in any way connected with the disorder or decay of the Productive Functions. Persons about to marry, if conscious of any weakness, should take the

CONSTITUTION WATER,

Whether broken down by excess, weak by nature, or impaired by sickness, the unstrung and relaxed organization is at once braced, revivified and built up. Well may this celebrated medicine be called the

MEDICAL WONDER.

The stooping, trembling victim of depression and debility becomes a new man; he stands erect, he moves with a firm step, his mind, which was previously sunk in gloom or an almost idiotic apathy, becomes bright and active; and he goes forth regenerated, conscious of new vigor. The medicine reaches the CONSTITUTION itself, and restores it to its normal condition.

IRRITATION OF THE NECK OF THE BLADDER, INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS, AND CATARRH OF THE BLADDER,
STRANGUARY AND BURNING, OR PAINFUL
URINATING,
CALCULUS, GRAVEL,
BRICK DUST DEPOSIT, AND MUCOUS
OR MILKY DISCHARGES AFTER URINATING.

For these diseases it is truly a sovereign remedy, and too much cannot be said in its praise. A single dose has been known to relieve the most urgent symptoms. TRY IT in these cases, and you will ever give praise to

CONSTITUTION WATER.

Males or Females

Are you troubled with that distressing pain in the small of the back and through your hips? CONSTITUTION WATER will relieve you like magic.

ALLEN'S

LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS' TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION. IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle.
